OPAL Risk/Benefit Assessments

Outdoor Play and Learning: The Arena

The benefits of rough play are that we can:

- Take exciting risks.
- Challenge ourselves.
- Move our bodies in different ways.
- Make decisions for ourselves.
- Learn to regulate our own emotions.
- Be resilient.
- Learn to play fair and gain the respect of others.
- Learn to win and lose graciously.
- Have fun.
- Develop skills of coordination and balance.
- Develop body strength and knowledge of our own bodies.

- Only in designated area.
- Three people are needed: two engaged in the rough play and one to monitor.
- No kicking or hitting: pulling and pushing only.
- No pulling clothes.
- Take shoes off for rough play. Only take them off once you are on the waiting bench.
- On your knees for now.
- You consent by playing. You might get hurt!
- Nothing above neck or within the private areas.
- Shout, "Neck!" if any contact with your neck is made and release immediately.

Innovating...

Do we want a box or benches as a place to store shoes while participating in rough play?

Result of vote: It was 50/50 so we will do both!

Reminders:

1. We need to tidy up as quickly as possible, remember to pick up 3 things and tidy up or line up.
2. If there is no adult in an area and it is shut (such as the Library) then we shouldn't be in there.
3. Break times will be on the big playground from now on.
